Department of Public Safety Parole and Probation Officers Arrest Computer Consultant on Fraud Charges

Owner of 6Speed Data Development and Nevada Probationer arrested at his Las Vegas residence with forgery "tools," documents and account numbers

Las Vegas, NV~A routine offender interview by Department of Public Safety (DPS) Parole and Probation officers resulted in the arrest of 29-year old Las Vegas resident Domgel Yee on Tuesday, January 3, 2005.

Officers arrested Yee at his Las Vegas residence at 2225 Moreno Court after Parole and Probation Officers discovered a stolen credit card with activation instructions and fraudulent ID in the cardholders' name, multiple blank checks, blank check stock paper to print checks, bank deposit slips and receipts for several banks. Officers also found "exacto" knives (commonly known in law enforcement agencies as a basic forgers' tool), legal pad sheets containing many company and individual names with account numbers, bank routing numbers, addresses and other personal information.

Officers from the US Postal Service and Las Vegas Metro Police Department assisted with the search and investigation. Yee is identified by officers as associating with members of local forgery rings. One item recovered at Yee's residence was a check written in 2003 by a Nevada Parole and Probation Officer who identified the item as stolen from a community mailbox in her neighborhood.

Yee is the owner of 6Speed Data Development, a computer consulting business. He has been supervised by Parole and Probation officers since October 4, 2005 for a gross misdemeanor false imprisonment conviction. The false imprisonment charge was a result of Yee locking up his family with deadbolts in the family residence. The family was rescued after his wife, Rona Yee, called police. He was previously convicted of possession of a stolen vehicle in 2003 and currently owes over $30,000.00 in bad checks through the Clark County District Attorney Bad Check Unit.

Yee will face new federal and state charges as a result of the investigation. He was transported to the Clark County Detention Center, held without bail and will appear before the judge who originally granted him probation.

Nevada Parole and Probation, a Division of the Department of Public Safety, is responsible for providing monitoring and supervision to 17,474 offenders statewide. The Division also conducts pre-sentence investigations for Nevada District Courts on all felony and gross misdemeanor convictions.

For further information on the Yee arrest contact Parole and Probation Lt. John Springgate at 702-486-7555.
